HOLY CROSS POETRY WALK

SONNET FOR SUMMER

The rays of the sun shine into my room,
Hitting my face, waking me from my sleep.
I go outside and see the flowers bloom
I start my car and hear its noisy beep,
A long day at Lido Beach we will share
The radio's loud, the car is moving
Fast on the highway. Summer's in the air.
Cold drinks and lunch, everyone's approving
Of the day at the beach. The water's cold,
Perfect for the hot summer temperature.
As the dimming sun sets, the sky turns gold,
I realize these are the days I prefer.
As the leaves change color, and the weather
Grows colder, these days stop altogether.
