1981 PURPLE PATCHER
COLLEGE OF THE HOLY CROSS
WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS

What makes for a year at Holy Cross?

... the interplay of
Jesuits, Jocks,
Preps, Profs, Partyers, Pre-Meds
Exiles, Roommates,
Men and Women ...

... an unending succession of suicidal hall sports, $1 films, dorm parties, breakneck rides down snow clad hills on Kimball "sleds", plays, dances and impromptu road trips . .

... a much maligned food service, and while Ma Kimball may be no Maxwell's, where else could you find "Red", eternal-truth tea bags, and milk cartons which expound on everything from planets to presidents ...

... the desire of our varsity athletes, which was transcended only by the pleasure we derived from cheering on our often overmatched but nevertheless indefatigable peers

Residence life at Holy Cross is undeniably a redoubtable barrel of fun, but, all things considered, one universal element is the necessity of coping with the natural and man-made elements which permeate life on Mount Saint James.

The period between arising and exiting the dorm is replete with the pitfalls of communal living. One drags their groggy self out of the room only to be faced by a veritable minefield in the hallway. That which the night before was a functional vessel is now fragmented about your feet, eager to rend your flesh at that point which is impossible to make a bandage adhere to. The resourceful individual avoids hazards such as this, bottlecaps, and fellow bleary-eyed, cranky sojourners.

Showering is the method of rejoining the world of the living. A process which is more than facilitated by somebody flushing a toilet just as you happen to be rinsing out the Head and Shoulders. Having survived the trip to the washroom without uncontrollable bleeding and no first degree burns, one may proceed to get dressed (hopefully without recourse to the laundry bag) during which you "accidentally" wake up your roommate, who visits upon you a scowl usually reserved by a father for his 16 year old daughter when she's been out for the evening a tad too late.

Kimball breakfast is invariably the day's best meal, but because you're on the verge of passing out into your French toast and since people are rushing in and out to their next class it's the toughest meal to effectively scope at, and besides that, there's never any Quisp.

Breakfast finished, one can get about the business of stumbling through the day by being at least physically present in class, by checking the PO five times even though the mail's only delivered twice, and by dodging post-dinner water balloons.

But there's more to residence life than such daily niceties.

There's General Hospital in Hogan cafeteria weekday afternoons. Admission is just five bucks, but free for those without minds.

There's starting your laundry at 8 in the morning and finishing it at 3 that afternoon, providing the dryer you used dried.

There's Asteroids, Missile Command, Space Invaders, Pinball, Pool and trying to find a space for your car in the upper parking lot.

There're blind date blahs, bus trips to jai-alai/Celtics/Red Sox games, snacks after Sunday night mass, grinder nights, and false fire alarms at 2 am when it's 20 degrees outside (wind-chill factor notwithstanding).

There's living off-campus and being held in awe by most freshman in the same way that notorious criminals are.

They're sun worshippers on Easy Street, in front of the greenhouse, down by the track adjacent to the dorm by the freeway and in the bathrooms of HoJo's.

There's enduring the dorm lottery. One gets a room of course, but the odds of getting the room desired are about as good as your chances of winning when you go first in a game of Russian Roulette played with a rifle.

There're those nights when you exit Din-and to find that the mist which was falling when you went in is now a ground-hugging coat of ice.

There're dorm parties of varying degrees of exuberance. The level of conviviality being directly linked to the location, which can range from suburban Mulledy to Marin Countyish Wheeler.

There're inestimable "fawdy minute" waits for pizza, countless trips to Miss Woo's, Steeple's, Becker, Moynihan's, The Tip, HoJo's, Valley and sundry other locales, endless streams of mimeos populating your PO and lengthy conversations with your roommate after the lights have been turned off (the subjects of which are as impossible to recall the next morning as they were imperative to address the night before).

There's living with another person, and whether it's by assignment or mutual preference it's in one's interaction with a roommate that you learn (if you learn) what's really worth learning at Holy Cross.

EVENTS

Freshman Orientation

- "Hi! Welcome to Holy Cross. I'm your RA and I'm glad to meet you. This is your other RA who's also glad to meet you. Next."
- orientation folders chock full of worthless information
- not knowing you had to be at the Mass of the Holy Spirit a half hour in advance in order to get a seat

Battle of the Dorms

- Hanselman won again, dammit
- pie-eating replaced ice cream-eating in the slovenly contest category
- interminable mad-dog soccer wars
- the Sunday nite everybody vs. Hanselman water fight which prompted the gallant RAs of the besieged dorm to write a stern letter to the Crusader chastizing such reprobattinicism

Parent's Weekend

- getting mom and dad to take you out to dinner
- the tennis tournament getting rained-out, again
- most parents leaving a soggy football stadium convinced that a two touch-down Crusader lead with time running out was safe. Guess what?

- dancing with mom or dad

Halloween

- the traditional madhouse/sweatshop in the ballroom
- best costumes: the falsified IDs
- Night of the Living Dead played in Kimball

Speakers

- George McGovern on the Moral Majority
- Ramsey Clark on Iran
- Cross and Scroll on how to accumulate a $3500 deficit

Concert

- Hall and Oates performed
- a $7,000 loss was suffered
- hopes for a concert next year under the auspices of a reorganized 1843 club

Christmas Banquet

- hall parties before and after
- dire warnings as to the correlation between the bringing of alcoholic beverages and the discontinuance of the event

- Santa finding out who the naughty were and nice was

Theater

Hot I Baltimore:

- Tom Biegacki swinging his traveling bag into his head during one of the performances

Twelfth Night:

- Fenwick's annual venture into the realm of Shakespeare

Merton of the Movies:

- the large screen onto which stills were flashed

Pippin:

- five consecutive sellouts at which playgoers found out why leotards are commonly referred to as tights

Auction

- Andy Clivio presenting the shortcomings of pyromaniacism

- Jimmy Riles as MC

- Debbie and Ruth ('nuf said)

Sadie Hawkins

- typical Purple Key band

- lists of available males appearing on certain women's floors

- Goldfish ad nauseum

Black Week

- a film and speakers

- Val Curtis's play

- the yearly spectacular fashion show, with Mike Silva as MC

Amateur Nite

- Audience

- Bands

- Comedians(?)

- Boos and more Booze

Spring Weekend

- rollerskating about the hills

- bullriding; card playing; portrait taking
- spontaneous corporation forming in order to have enough points to outbid the competition for the prizes auctioned off

- the concert which meteorological conditions forced into the pub

Spring Ball

- appreciation of the astronomical price of flowers

- dancing to your favorite group

- everybody who didn't go staying away from the pub to avoid recrimination

FACULTY

From Code 7 (last to go at registration) Freshman thru receiving one's diplomas as a bona fide graduate, the single most important aspect of a student's life at Holy Cross is the pursuit of academic excellence.

Registration is the prelude to finding yourself awake at 3 am sipping on some half-empty can of Coke, which by that hour is flat anyway, just because you've got a mid-term the next day. Actually, the process of selecting your classes for the coming semester is only interesting when you are a neophyte freshman. On the nite of your first day here you get an explanation of the registration procedure that makes about as much sense as the rules concerning hockey's two blue lines. After that you've got about forty hours to decide which courses you want to take, meet your advisor and find out which courses you "should" take, and then actually go register only to learn that the courses which remain open you find about as desirable as a Friday dinner in Kimball during Lent (Calc 32, anyone?). Of course, the particularly intriguing aspect of this unique ritual is the "advising" aspect. After all, it's not like your paying 8 grand a year gives you some inalienable right to take what you want, you've just got to get that impartial input. How else would you ever take a course you might flunk?

At least once you're in a class it's not like you're trapped in it. After finding out that the course isn't quite what you had in mind you can always add/drop, another two blue-line procedure. Those courageous enough to stick it out are rewarded with 7 hours of lab a week, 85 lines of Latin a nite, weekly 3 page papers and a real job after graduation. So much for courage. But whatever you finally get there's going to be some work involved, unless you live next to someone who took it the previous semester.

Yes work, that remarkable panoply of intellectual labor, but finding a place to attend to such matters is half the battle. You could try doing it in the social center located behind the Hand of Christ statue, or you could try and kick it out in your room with stereophonic sound provided by your hall-mates, or you could blow it off in favor of some cold ones, or you could find some Shangri-La and do it, but why be unique?

Far and away the best aspect of all this learning stuff is the ability to ape Sherlock Holmes and be able to tell a student's year by looking at their course schedule. For example, if you saw a student's electives and there was a 3:30 Friday or a *Anyday on it you could guess froshie and be right. Now, if there was a seminar listed and it had no final exam it could behoove you to hypthesize second semester senior.

But what would eighty bucks a semester for books be without a faculty and that's to whom the following portion of this book is dedicated. Without further adieu, the faculty (and administration) section begins.

Thanks Mary Berner, we couldn't have done it, and had a laugh without you.

August 28, 1977 — the hottest day in Holy Cross history (well maybe) — the Crusade began. On that steamy Sunday evening, we gathered in the posh Kimball cinema to listen to Dean Joseph Maguire welcome and warn us. College would not be easy, he said. We would have to spend at least eight hours a day studying. And then we all laughed.

Holy Cross was quite different then, and a lot has happened since. Remember?

Freshman year . . . We all took library tours and found out how to use the card catalogue . . . the drinking age was just 18 . . . keg parties abounded on every hall . . . the Worcester Civic Center was supposed to be finished . . . Wheeler 5 was all male . . . Igor wowed the crowd during basketball timeouts . . . anyone who could tolerate long lines and excessive heat could drink in the old, upstairs pub . . . the Blizzard of '77 cancelled 3 days of classes and ignited a 3 day party . . . Carlin won the Winter Carnival Snow Sculpture contest with a silly-looking castle . . . we waited in longer-than-life lines in "old" Kimball . . . the football team whopped B.C. . . . a beer was only 30¢ in the Pub.

Sophomore year . . . we forgot everything we learned freshman year . . . the disco library wings were opened . . . the Civic Center still wasn't finished . . . on April 20 the drinking age was raised to 20 . . . that same day, the upstairs pub shut down its taps after a wild, "drink-til-you-sink" evening . . . the ugly purple rug went into Kimball . . . a horse paraded through the Main Reading Room of the library . . . all those lucky enough to be 20 drank in the bathroom disguised as a room, but called the Sadarskeller . . . we actually studied in the library . . . lower Kimball opened to rave reviews . . . we met Sadie Hawkins . . . the football team beat B.C. again . . . the price of a Pub beer went up to 35¢ and a few more brain cells died.

Junior year . . . girls took over Wheeler 5 . . . the Thinker got on-campus housing . . . Alumni introduced us to the Blind Date Ball . . . the new lower pub opened . . . fences and curbs sprung-up in the Quad . . . the Civic Center was "going to be finished, but . . ." women started a Rugby team, believe it or not . . . we all found out we hated our major . . . the Rugby House closed at the end of the year, and ruggers were on the loose . . . we wandered into the library and met the Xerox machine . . . a beer in the Pub went up to 40¢ and our grades went down a little more.

Senior year . . . Senior Week gave us a "picnic" in lower Kimball, Casablanca and quarter beers, dessert with the Jesuits, and a most memorable cocktail party . . . the Alcohol Task Force told us we were responsible for drinking irresponsibly . . . the 1843 Concert was unusually quiet and unattended . . . the Civic Center was, well . . . we all escaped to Brigadoon . . . it rained (again) and the football team lost (again) on Parent's Weekend . . . a freshman pointed out the library to us . . . a record player performed at the Spring Ball . . . a select few got job offers, everyone else applied to the JVC . . . the Thinker left (with us, of course) . . . 100 Daze really happened. . . . so did 50 daze . . . 20 daze . . . 10, 9, 8 . . . Fort Lauderdale became a Holy Cross suburb for one week in March . . . we survived four years of the Holy Cross band . . . and beer went up to 45¢, the cups went down to 8 ounces, and our college years went down in Holy Cross history as A.O.K.

ACTIVITIES

The avenues which one might avail themselves of with regards to spending their after class hours are not wholly comprised by setting up residence in either Dinand or the 1843 room. There are a number of campus organizations to which one may dedicate their efforts. At the risk of being hubristic, some of the activities one can join are forthwith categorized:

Performing: The performing activities give the talented, or just plain courageous, among us the chance to entertain. Our infamous band plays at both football and basketball games. ACT provides a chance to work on plays of a lighter vein than those usually undertaken by Fenwick. The cheerleaders brave cold and rain during the football season, and survive disparaging comments concerning certain leggings worn during basketball games. Choir members sacrifice Monday afternoons that we might enjoy a degree of musical culture.

Student Service: Student service activities provide us with a number of social alternatives. Cross and Scroll provides speakers addressing a variety of current issues. The 1843 Club gave us Hall and Oates but was precluded from having a spring concert due to demon deficit. The Purple Key Society runs the "name" events of the year. CCBofD runs happenings ranging from pub entertainment to free films. The SGA runs off at the mouth a lot, but also keeps tabs on every aspect of life on Mt. St. James in protecting the student interest.

Community Service: If anything evidences that HC students are not ivory tower hermits it's our community service groups. YARC provides social events for the retarded members of the local community. SPUD offers its big brother/sister program. CCD provides students the chance to teach, while Abby's friends lends assistance to women from the surrounding area.

Awareness: Awareness organizations expand our knowledge on areas which may be foreign to us. The Black Student Union familiarizes one with black perspectives. The Women's Organization sponsors speakers on numerous topics. Students for Life calls on us to evaluate our commitment to the preservation of life. The Bishop Healy Society works for a better understanding among all elements of HC society. CCM provides an outlet for those students with strong religious commitment. The Ski Club, while not addressing issues as weighty as other groups, does give one the opportunity to hurtle down the face of a hill without the slightest inkling of how to stop when you reach the bottom.

Media: The media activities provide both information and entertainment. The Crusader makes early Friday PO trips a must and manages to sneak a story of interest in among the letters and classifieds every now and then. WCHC magnanimously offers one the choice between aural bliss and eternal bliss, along with Crusader hockey, PSAs and rapid-tongue sportscasters. The Purple, an outlet for poets and writers, proves worth the wait. Cross Currents goes the way of the buffalo as HC's magazine folded due to economic constraints. And then there's the Purple Patcher, where anybody can grow up to be editor, though it's not a prerequisite.

April 81

WELCOME!

This first issue of the Holy Cross Women's Resource marks a new beginning for the Holy Cross Women's Organization. The Administrative Board for the year 1981 has been elected. A much needed position has been created on this board for a representative of the Black Student Union. With these administrative changes has come a renewed enthusiasm to support, to educate, and to raise the consciousness of our community at Holy Cross.

The decision to expand the newsletter to four pages resulted from our strong desire to provide a medium through which women can become an integral part and vital force of the Holy Cross Women's Organization.

situation does constitute sexual harassment until after the incident has taken place. This type of non-examination tends to result in retrospective rationalization, causal dismissals, and implicit acceptance of the behavior involved. Too many confrontations between the sexes at Holy Cross, indicating underlying resentment, power plays, and a real lack of respect, are quickly shrugged off as just another weekend, keg related prank. By examining various definitions, we hope to initiate an awareness of how and when sexual harassment touches our lives.

In August of 1980, the National Advisory Council on Women's Educational Programs broadly defined sexual harassment as non-reciprocal male behavior that asserts a woman's

SPORTS

For all intents and purposes the season began on February 14
the team had looked great and given some time before the team could start a new season.

For all intents and purposes the basketball season began on February 14. Until this date the team had looked great/fair/horrible in any given game. Then, before an overflow Hart Center crowd and a regional TV audience, the Crusaders, ignited by Garry Witts's last-second jumper at half time and two proto-typical "yo-mama" dunks by Ernie Floyd, massacred BC's highly touted Eagles.

Happy Valentine's Day.

The team's play following this was markedly better, particularly that of Eddie Thurman. But the squad committed a crucial faux pas when they failed to capture the number one seed (and concomitant home court advantage) in the ECAC-North playoffs. In the championship game a regulation ending half-court prayer by #1 ranked Northeastern led to an OT loss. No NCAA berth, no guaranteed $90,000 minimum. Then the NIT rolled to the rescue and HC was sent to Southern Mississippi for sacrifice. The Cross disregarded the odds and when Dave Mulquin's last-second shot fell in the team had its first NIT win since 1975. But every silver cloud's got a gray lining and the victory led to a matchup with Syracuse. Snubbed by the NCAA, the Orangemen took their ire out on the team, handing them a 20 point defeat. The season was ended, but it had seen: Garry Witts score his 1,000th point; South Alabama's manic, towel-wielding manager; Sport's Illustrated's BC point-shaving scandal cover hit the stands a few days before the Hart Center clash and inspire short-lived student banners; the male cheerleaders shorts; "Zeke" starting against Iona and making yearlong contributions as a walk-on; Tom Seaman's offensive prolificacy; 20 wins.

A forgettable football season ended with a 3-8 mark and the dismissal of Neil Wheelwright. Of note was the near upset of BC, Dave Boisture's passing for a record 1659 yards and the outstanding defensive play of Steve Raquet. The "new" era of Crusader football begins next season under new head coach Rick Carter.

Big time women's sports came this year with scholarships to the basketball team and the naming of Togo Palazzi as head coach. A 5-3 start had many questioning the perspicacity of the financial aid, but the 15 straight wins which followed erased any doubts. The team won two tourneys and appeared on TV while being led by newcomers Sherry Levin, Phyllis Townsend and Mary Ann Palazzi. High hopes are held for next year as only two players are lost to graduation.

The field hockey team continued a tradition of excellence on the field and anonymity off it, posting a 13-2-5 record. Sue Biggs led the way on a team which had seven players named All-Stars.

Elsewhere . . . the soccer team won seven times, surpassing the previous two year's combined . . . the women's tennis team posted seven shutouts en route to an 11-3 record . . . a 2nd place MAIAW tourney finish capped the volleyball team's first winning season . . . the hockey team began the year with a near upset of Div. I powerhouse BC and suffered a rollercoaster season thereafter . . . the women's crew novice boat finished ahead of Worcester State at the WCC while the men sent a boat to the prestigious Eastern Sprints for the first time . . . Dave Stenhouse's Div. I leading .480 BA highlighted an otherwise bleak baseball season . . . the women's lacrosse season was highlighted by a 4-3 win over Wheaton where Kathy O'Connor had a hat trick and Sue Biggs the winning goal with 15 seconds remaining . . . swimming star Callie Taffe set HC records in the 50/100/200 yard breaststroke and earned All-American honors in each . . . in women's track Jackie McNiff finished 24th in the AIAW National Championships, 8.2 seconds out of 15th and All-American honors, and Ruth Flynn closed out an outstanding career . . . in men's track George Durgin excelled in the discus while Gerry Jones finished his career as the highest HC point scorer in the last fifteen years . . . Crusader of the Year honors were bestowed upon both John Ahern and Callie Taffe.

A year at Holy Cross consists of . .

. . . the pursuit of some modicum of knowledge and coming ot the realization that only a small amount of that which it is possible to learn may be found in a text . . .

... a recognition of the uniqueness of our campus and an appreciation of how the labors of those individuals employed by the college enabled us to take advantage of its potential and enjoy its beauty ...

our tra
Cha tho

... the opportunity to profess our faith with our fellow students or by ourselves, in ways ranging from the traditional large gatherings in Mary Chapel to intimate masses such as those held by Fr. LaBran ...

... a first-ever Hart Center graduation ceremony, and as a result of perceptive planning and perfect execution, brilliant valedictory and commencement addresses and the necessary "closeness" of all in attendance, thoughts of one being cheated by the weather gave way to a feeling that somehow one had profited by the rains of May 29 . . .

... but most importantly, a year at Holy Cross is a year spent among friends, and while the lectures and PO combination fade from memory as the years after Holy Cross go by, it's the enjoyment one derived from being among friends, among the people we love, that lingers.

Volume LXXIII of the College of the Holy Cross Purple Patcher was printed by Josten's American Yearbook Company in State College, PA.

Paper stock is 80 pound Consolidated high gloss double-coated enamel.

Endsheet stock is Snow White 280. The endsheets are a special design, same front and back, with PMS # 395 first color and PMS # 527 second color.

The chief type style used in this book's copy and headlines is from the News Gothic family.

Photography was processed by Adams Studio of Fitchburg, MA and Fallman's of Worcester, MA. Individual portrait work was done primarily by Adams Studio.

The majority of photographs was taken by the Patcher staff. Other credits go to the Public Affairs Office for a number of shots in the faculty section and for photos on pp. 159, 320; Bill Rynders for pp. 86, 87; Adams Studio for pictures appearing on pp. 230, 232, 233, 234, 235; the soccer team for pp. 276, 277, 278, 279; the fencing team for pp. 284, 285; the track team for pictures on pp. 316, 317.

The weight of the '81 Patcher is a lot so don't use it to reenact the monk scene from Monty Python and The Holy Grail.

I would like to correct the error of Kathy Wilbur's not having received credit for being on the copy staff of the '80 Patcher. Her efforts, along with those of the other two staffers enabled a co-worker to be writing this. With regards to the '81 book I thank the Public Affairs Office for their outstanding cooperation. Equally appreciated was the help afforded by Dave Senko, Sports Information Director. Thanks goes to Peter Simonds, moderator, to Campus Security for helping me with the ins and outs of working in Hogan during June, to the switchboard operators for patching all our calls through, to the gentlemen of the Post Office for getting our deadlines safely out and handling the deluge of intra campus mail we had, to the Hogan maintenance staff for tolerating an oft-abused office, to Steve Hines and The Purple staff for putting up with our annexing their share of 425 for long periods, to Barry Woolf and Jack Otterness, yearbook reps past and present, to the Dean of Students Office, to Bill and Tom for aiding and abetting a "fugitive", and to my future roomie, who, in between steel-cage matches, cornered me following one of my deadline all-nighters and by some artifice got me to sign a check for a couple of "at least worth $20" lamps that look like they came free with two Corn Flakes box tops. But no man is an island, unless it's post-graduation, so I now pay homage to my staff.

First, I would like to thank the little people who made this book possible. But besides Donna, I also want to thank "Don't worry Vhan" Richard, Beth, Michi, Denise (and Darth). I particularly want to thank Bob Monroe, not only for the brilliant layouts and the come-deadline see-daybreak dependability he provided in between tours of duty in Dinand, but also for inculcating in myself an appreciation of the true meaning of "common sense" by virtue of his electing to become editor-in-chief at such a point in time that when that book's distributed he'll be safely ensconced within the friendly confines of Cleveland Municipal. My gratitude also goes to the non-titled staffers who provided me with something to put between the covers and somebody who would buy it.

The picture of Dan Russell, '81, is on this page because, through no fault of his own, it was submitted too late to be where it should be. The picture of the tin-foiled guy on the horse is here because we're all "Crusaders", pretty subliminal, huh?

If by now you've figured out the book's theme-congratulations-there is none. The only thing we consciously tried to convey was a sense of the lighter side of life at Holy Cross.

The 1981 Purple Patcher had a press run of 1300 copies. Distribution began during the month of September, 1981. Warning, all money removed from this book each night.
