Camp May 18. 1868

My dear Jennie:

Your kind note of the 14th I have received this evening. Under present circumstances I am not able to comply with my former promise to send home the "white horse."

I have not seen the address in print yet but expect it every day.

I am not in a mood to converse with you tonight. I am vexed about several things here—but all may come out right in a few days.
